January, 2019

The recent government shutdown reminds us of what happens when people refuse to see another point of view. "I am 100% right; therefore, you are 100% wrong" is a sentiment that seems to prevail among some in Washington. Fortunately, we are seeing something else entirely here in the North Woods. In this community people work together for the greater good regardless of differing backgrounds or viewpoints. When one among us is struggling, people come out of the woodwork to help. This attitude is what truly makes us strong. Together, we always find a solution to the problems before us. Let us all remember this when things get tough: Our neighbors, our friends, and the friends we've not yet met are all in this together. We wish all of you a wonderful year.

Love,
Alan and Amy
